This holistic tool maps out twelve areas of life, based on the astrological houses. Set aside some time to set your sights on what it will take to live your full radiant light. Do this as part of a weekly, monthly, quarterly or annual planning process.

Write in your plans as they relate to these different areas of life. If there's an overarching theme you're working with, write that in the flower at the center. Put your finished plan some place you can see it often to help you stay focused.
